Ready to buy? These 10 Connecticut cities and towns have plenty of homes priced well for first-time buyers

By KENNETH R. GOSELIN
HARTFORD COURANT  |  DEC 06, 2019

Home sales across Connecticut increased for the second month in a row in October, a new report this week showed, and first-time homebuyers — often an active purchasing segment — surely played a part.

But where might first-time buyers be settling into their starter homes?
To find out where first-time buyers might be landing, The Courant first asked the Connecticut Housing Finance Authority, which has an active first-time buyer program. Through a little more than the first 10 months of this year, first-time homebuyers paid an average of $195,738 among more than 2,400 loans, CHFA said.

With that average, The Courant then asked The Warren Group, which tracks real estate trends in New England, to sort sales of single-family houses statewide, through October of this year. Warren used a range of $185,738 to $205,738 to broaden a bit from the average price provided by CHFA. The sales reported for each town here reflect that calculation.

[Business] As climate change accelerates, U.S. senators pressure New England’s grid operator to do more to quit carbon-based fuel »
The sampling isn’t scientific and there could be some downsizings in the mix. But the results show towns and cities that are likely on the radar of first-time homebuyers.

Here is the top 10 list:

1. Enfield

Number of sales: 109

Population: 43,120

Median household income: $73,494

[Business] Attorney General Tong wades into Tweed airport dispute, asking US Supreme Court to review decision overturning state law regulating runway length »

One fact: Due to a surveyor’s error in 1642, Enfield was initially settled as part of Massachusetts but a century later, seceded to Connecticut.
2. Meriden

Number of sales: 95
Population: 62,875

Median household income: $57,350

One fact: The stone Castle Craig observation tower atop East Peak may have been inspired by a Norman French tower, a Turkish tower on the Danube or an ancient tower in Scotland.
Lake Compounce in Bristol is the oldest continuously operating amusement park in the United States.

3. Bristol

Number of sales: 93

Population: 59,535
Median household income: $64,586

One fact: Bristol’s Lake Compounce is the oldest continuously operating amusement park in America, opened in 1846.
The Barnum Museum on Main Street in downtown Bridgeport. (Christian Abraham, Associated Press)

4. Bridgeport

Number of sales: 85

[Business] Attorney General Tong wades into Tweed airport dispute, asking US Supreme Court to review decision overturning state law regulating runway length »

Population: 148,729

Median household income: $44,841
One fact: Despite its urban, industrial image, Bridgeport has more than 1,300 acres of public space, earning it the nickname, “The Park City.” Two of them, Seaside and Beardsley parks, were the vision of Frederick Law Olmsted, the designer of New York’s Central Park.

William Brown, director of the Eli Whitney Museum in Hamden, stands in the armory barn built by Whitney in 1816, when he was in the business of making guns. The ornate barn is an example of Whitney's ingenuity. (STEPHEN DUNN)

5. Hamden

Number of sales: 81

Population: 62,545

Median household income: $74,281

One fact: Iconic inventor Eli Whitney established a factory complex in Hamden in the early 19th century, after supercharging the South’s economy with the cotton gin. In his Hamden factory, he perfected the innovation of the milling machine for interchangeable rifle parts.

6. Manchester

Number of sales: 78

Population: 62,697
Median household income: $67,325

[Business] Connecticut picks Massachusetts energy company for significant offshore wind project based in Bridgeport »

One fact: Geno Auriemma, longtime head coach of the UConn women's basketball team, lives in Manchester.

7. West Haven

Number of sales: 78

Population: 58,318
Median household income: $55,299

One fact: West Haven, incorporated as a town in 1922 and a city in 1961, is the state's youngest city despite being one of the state's oldest settlements.

8. East Hartford

Number of sales: 67

Population: 53,241

Median household income: $52,049
One fact: Silver Lane, a major thoroughfare in East Hartford, may owe its name to the Revolutionary War when French troops camped there and were paid in silver. Or, it may simply have been the location of a well-known local silversmith.

9. East Haven

Number of sales: 64

[Business] A year after buying Aetna, CEO Larry Merlo says CVS is committed to Hartford and transforming health care with revamped pharmacies »

Population: 29,332
Median income: $63,051

One fact: East Haven soda company Foxon Park Beverages is a town landmark, using the same recipe since its founding in 1922.

10. Stratford

Number of sales: 58

Population: 51,903

Median household income: $72,757
As climate change accelerates, U.S. senators pressure New England’s grid operator to do more to quit carbon-based fuel

Attorney General Tong wades into Tweed airport dispute, asking US Supreme Court to review decision overturning state law regulating runway length

Ready to buy? These 10 Connecticut cities and towns have plenty of homes priced well for first-time buyers

One fact: Stratford claims a place in aviation history as the site of a flight by Gustave Whitehead in 1901, a full two years before the famed flight by the Wright Brothers in Kitty Hawk, N.C.

SOURCES: The Warren Group; Connecticut Economic Resource Center community profiles; courant.com; w3r.org; connecticuthistory.org; bridgeport.org; eliwhitney.org

Kenneth R. Gosselin can be reached at kgosselin@courant.com.
Ready to buy? These 10 Connecticut cities and towns have plenty of homes priced well for first-time buyers - Hartford Courant